The Guilford Scholarship Society was founded in 1937 for the purpose of promoting scholarship and awarding recognition for scholastic attainment. Membership in the society is composed of those members of the faculty who are National Scholarship Fratemity members and of those undergraduates who have obtained honor roll records within six or eight semesters of matriculation as freshmen. Honorary members may be elected by unanimous vote of the society from former graduates and from resident faculty members. Elections to the society are held at the end of the sixth and eighth semesters with public induction of new members after college opens the following fall.

The Student Affairs Board, consisting of one member from each class and student organization and the taculty committee on student activities, functions in a supervisory capacity over all student urganizations and campus activities. The Board determines the eligibility of students, to hold office and conducts the general student election; it has complete charge of the student affairs tee and draws up the yearly budget, apportioning funds among the respective organizations as they seem to make the most valuable contribution to student life. This year a gond proportion was given to the gymnasium fund from a surplus which the student fee had accumulated from past budgets.

THE CHOIR

Imp. Ezra H. F. Weis, Iirector

The Guilford College A Capelta Choir this year completed it, tenth successive season with exceedingly gratifying results at every turn. Concerts were attended everywhere by capacity andiences, and the effort, of the organization were rewarded by well-deserved prase and commendation. The choir was organized in 1929 under the direction of Max Noah, and was modeled atter the Westminster Choir of Dr. John Finlay Williamson. The choir was the first of it type in the South and sonn gained an enviable reputation along the Atlantic Scaboard for its extremely successful concerts.

This year the choir took its annual spring concert tour through South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, and the success of the tour bids fair for even better and more extensive tours in the future. Too much praise camot be given to Dr. Weis for the choir's success. Taking a group of untrained wices from the student body, he bas molded a concert group which has been more responsible than any other campus organization for the reputation Guilford has attained in the eastern section of the Lnited States.

The work of the Men's Student Government is evolutionary rather than supervisory, and one of advising rather than controlling. It is the purpose of the organization to achieve a comperative apirit among men students to the end that the moral and social attitude of the entire student hody thall be elevated. As an official unit in campu life, the group strives to bring about levels of attaiment which will set a future precedent in student government programs, while at the same time relieving the faculty and adminitration of direct supervision wer the male vudent bods and handling stuations an they arise as carefully and capably as porible.

The President and Vice-President are elected by the men sudents in the pring voting to assume office the following fall, while one reprecentative th the conncil is chowen from each dormitory division, claw, and the day student group. From this group of thirteen a secretary is chosen and the concil act as reprenentative organ for the men students.

THE QUAKER

The production of the college annual each year demands a great deal of work on the part of that small group of students who comprise the yearbook editorial staff. The completion of the hook could never be possible were it not for the whole-hearted cooperation which the editors encounter in working with the student body, faculty, and those who are in any way concened with the production of the annual.

We of the staff wish at this time to make acknowledgment of and extend our thank to all those who willingly aided us during the year and whose efforts were so instrumental in the publication in this 1938 edition of the Cuilford College Quaker.

The Staff

This was the Guilfordian's twenty-fourth consecutive year of publication. Founded by the literary societies in 1914, this student newspaper has been administered by a staff elected by the entire student body since the founding groups were discontinued a few years ago.

A change in policy, early in the year, resulted in the disappearance of the popular humor column known as "The Minute Man." Its place was taken by a similar feature titled "Second Class Matter." Other changes, favorahly received by the student body, were made in an effort to make this biweekly publication take in more of the college life and afford a greater variety of interests and entertaimment to subscribers.

Debating on the Guilford campus, which was revived during the past two years, found added prestige during the year $1937^{-1} 38$. 'The Council was very active throughout the year with its activities, sponsoring many class debates and creating interest in college oratory.

Much attention was devoted to the South Atlantic Forensic Tournament at High Point in the early spring. The varsity debating team met representatives from colleges ranging from Pennsylvania to Georgia, securing a fair measure of success. The activities for the year closed with the local Peace Oratorical Contest. Many students entered, with the winner being sent to the State Peace Contest held in April.

The Men's Athletic Association, an organization which controls all athletic activities among mon students of Guilford College, introduced during the college year of $1937^{-} 38$, what is probahly the best program for intra-mural sports for all men students to engage in and enjoy that the college has had to date. Under the leadership of President Boyles and Vice-President Tilson, this group drew up schedules, rules and regulations and conducted an intra-mural program which provided for baskethall and baseball leagues, with the mobability that a tough football tournament would be added to the roster in the fall of 1938. Each section of the Cox Dormitory was represented by a team, Archolale was represented by one team from the entire dorm, and the day student group was split up into two sectionsone designated as the "Day-Hops" and the other as the "Panthers." The intra-mural tournaments were conducted in the usual fashion and with the usual bitter rivalry. The basketball tournament wound up with the Yankees, Old North, Center, and the Day Stooges waging a four-way battle in the playoff, with the Center basketeers finally emerging victorious by reason of their win over the Day-Hops. Tilson led his band of hoopsters through a fine rough and tumble season on the court, and then with the change in seasons came forth to do likewise on the baseball diamond. But the softball league play wat even more bitterly waged than the basketball. Several fine teams were developed, hut it was left to the Yankees to turn the trick and spike the guns of the Centemen after they had waded through the ranks of lower bracket competition. Once again a four-way play-off with Center, the Yanks, Old North and the Day Hops clawing at one another's throats was battled through, but Newkirk led his Yanks victorious to carry off the toumament cup.

With Coach Smith conducting the campaign for the Men's group, agitation for a new gymnasium on the campus rose to a high peak during the year, and vigorous movements were put under way to raise funds to support that campaign in some material fashion. Ahumni and student body alike were pledged to move for realization of that vital college need, and with constructive planning underway in the Men's and Women's Athletic Associations, it is hoped that completion of plans for that need will be tied much more closely to fact than has been the case in the past.

THE FOOTBALL SEASON。1937

COACH BLOCK SMITH

Sufficient praive cannot he heaped upon Coach Bloch Smith for hiv work as head coach of athletics at Guiltord with the start of the $1937-3^{8}$ college sear. From start to finish the !eat has been one of accomplishment; his varsity teams have hown a spirit and fight which promises a brighter future for Guaker sports; his intra-mural program has hecome a major part of the college physical education courses, with the student hod pursuing them actively and enthusiastically. Ite han firmly established himelf, and the faculty and entire student body reagrnize him as a fine coach, leader, friend, alumnm and senteman.

With eleven lettermen back in the fold atound whom to build his team for his first season as head coach, Block Smith faced a tough football schedule with just misgivings as he viewed a football squad, which if anything was short on weight, and a schedule far over-weight. With such teams as E. C. T. C., Randolph-Macon, William and Mary, Catawba, Lenoir-Rhyne, St. Johns, Appalachian and Elon to be met on successive weekends, prospects for a successful year on the gridiron seemed dim. With two new-comers to boost along the veterans, the Quakers again seemed blessed with a wealth of fine backfield material, and with Charlie Tilson running the team from the quarterback post, Lentz, Chambers, and Acree ready to step into the halfback assignments, and two good line-buckers in Grice and Atkinson to fill in the fullback spot, the offensive duties seemed well in hand. Once again the Quakers lacked strength at the ends; McCommons, Overman, and Fondren shaped up well as wingmen, but a lack of replacements at the flanks created continual shake-ups in the line to allow for substitutions. The guards, With Byrd and Boles, two of the finest in the conference, returned, seemed stronger than has been the case during the past four years, and with Captain Jim McDonald, Binford and Sad'er handling the tackles, Coach Smith may well have looked to a better season than was the ' 37 had it not been for a marked increase in the strength and calibre of the opposition facing him. The one compatatively easy spot on an otherwise hard schedule was the opening game with Eastern Carolina Teachers, and the Quakers rolled home with a $7-0$ victory in their initial appearance of the yzar. Paul Lentz, triple-threat back, around whom the Crimson offensive had been largely planned, emerged in the starring role with a fine performance in all three departments of his game; his passing and punting were exceptional; and repeatedly he carried the ball past his interference to outrun the Pirate secondary for long gains.

On October 9, the Quakers invaded Ashland, Virginia, to give battle to the Yellow Jackets of Randolph-Macon College, but a powerful line and bruising backfield attack sent the Quakers home stung by a five touchdown margin. William and Mary, another Old Dominion aggregation, treated the Quakers with no more hospitality on the following weekend, and the Royalists, though themselves suffering a disastrous season, had sufficient power to turn back the locals by a $38-0$ count, with the Guilfordians barely missing scoring chances.

McDonald, Captain, buck Acree, back

Tilson, back
Chambers, buck

Catawba, with a team composed almost entirely of veteran lettermen from the ' 37 season, swept through a highly successful season in the North State Conference ranks, and took Guilford in stride with a $28-0$ trouncing. The Quakers put up a game fight and the score exaggerates the margin of victory which the Indians really enjoyed, since breaks and a slow start paved the way for early Catawba scores before the Smith outfit got under way and stopped them.
Lenoi-Rhyne, playing the visitor role at Hobbs Field before a large homecoming crowd, swamped the Quakers under a powerful running and defensive play to eke out a 12.0 win. Heavily outweighed, the Quakers were no match for the powerful eleven from Hickory which finished well up with the leaders at the end of the season's race for conference honors.

supplied the home boys with plenty of opposition on the following weekend when the Quakers invaded Annapolis, Maryland. The Yankees turned back Guilford by a margin of 37 points while holding the Crimson scoreless, as the locals put up a listless game and played their poorest four quarters of football all season long.

With a rather battered record behind them the Quakers then drew the two toughest teams in the conference for successive weekends, Appalachian for November 13, and Elon for the 20th. With Acree out of action for most of the season with a badly injured ankle and Binford suffering from a similar injury, the outlook for holding the L'il Abners and the Christians in check or even holding down the score to respectable proportions seemed nil. Appalachian, which had upset Elon in an inter-conference tilt earlier in the season took the measure of the Quakers by a $37-0$ victory. Behind the battering thrusts and deadly passing of Len Wilson, star Mountaineer back, the charges of Coach Kidd Brewer terrorized the Quakers all afternoon.

The Cliristians, repeating their victories of the past few years, stormed through the Quakers with abandon behind the plunging and skirting of Jim Abbitt, to pile up a $39-0$ score before the final whistle. The Quakers, however, showed a surprising fight and on several occasions took the offensive to barge through the Elonites for first-downs whole holding the Christians for little or no gains on their tries with the ball. Charlie Tilson, playing his last game of foorball in Guilford colors, ended his career with one of the most brilliant afternoon's of defensive play that Quaker rooters have ever witnessed. Suffering from a broken finger incurred during the early minutes of the second half, Charlie time and time again broke up Christian running plays through his deadly tackling from the wing-back and safety posts. Bill Grice, freshman fullback from Lincolnton, played far and away his best game of the season, crashing onto E'on's forward wall all afternoon for substantial gains in yardage. Joe McCommons, playing at the left end post, shone on the defensive for the Quakers, breaking through to bring down Christian backs before play was well underway and smashing up running plays aimed around his side of the line.

Coach Smith lost six lettermen by graduation. Binford and Sadler, tackles; McCommons and Overman, ends; Ryan, a guard, and Charlie Tilson, quarterback, are the graduated seniors. Byrd and Chambers, returning co-captains elect, Acree, Boles, Fondren, Buck Hines, Lemmons, Atkinson, Lentz, Bob Wilson, Heath and Harry Nace are those monogram winners from this season who return in the fall of ' 38 to tackle Block Smith's second yaar as head coach.

ON THE COURT

With only three lettermen from the 1937 bas'.etball squad returning for the 1938 season, Coach Block Smith, starting on his first year as coach of the basketeers, faced a gloomy task to build a winning quintet out of a small squad reporting to the initial practice sessions. Lentz, a guard, Boles, forward, and Overman, forward and captain of the 1938 team were the only lettermen from the ' 37 squad reporting. Chambers, who earaed his letter as a freshman on the ' 36 team, but who failed to go out for the team during his sophomore year, reported this year and bolstered up the lineup considerably, since he had played a regular forward position during his freshman year and was counted on to fill in at forward or guard on the ' 38 squad. Harry Nace, a freshman, showed that he would be one of the likely fill-ins at the vacant guard post, but the center position, though not so important as in previous years because of a changed ruling which eliminated center jumps after each field goal, prescnted a problem. Sadler and Sammy Wynn were the on! $y$ two candidates for the post, and Sadler, a senior, got the starting call for the position most of the season, with $W_{\text {ynn }}$ substituting at center or forward as occasion demanded. Buck Hines, a freshman star in intra-mural basketball, reported to the varsity squad soon after the start of the season and soon won himself a starting post at forward.

of the University of North Carolina in the first game of the season, found Overman and Lentz at the guard positions, Chambers and Boles at forwards and Sadler and Wynn alternating at the center post. A strong Carolina quintet ran circles around the Quakers to run up a 60 to 15 score. Meeting Catawba in the first Conference tussle, the Quakers were barely nosed out by one point in a 26-25 struggle, as Overman and Boles racked up points while the Indians with a star quintet were hard-pressed to eke out a victory. Catawba gained vengeance the next evening at Salisbury, however, when the Indians beat the Quakers soundly 46 to 29 . Elon, with another powerful court aggregation, took the Quakers into camp with a 64 to 15 trouncing, and High Point followed up with a 90 to 19 licking, the worst defeats Guilford has suffered on a basketball floor for many years.

Appalachian with a 53 to 27 win and Davidson with a $57-17$ victory were the next two teams to down the Quakers. Atlantic Christian, with what pre-season dope had figured out to be a strong quintet became the sole victim of a Quaker victory when the Crimson downed them 31 to 28 . Elon with a 58 to 20 win, Atlantic Christian with a 39 to 29 victory, Lenoir Rhyne with a 44 to 29 victory, Appalachian again with a 60 to 28 win , Western Carolina Teachers with a 45 to 18 victory, High Point with a 56 to 31 trouncing, and Lenoir Rhyne with a 78 -32 licking rounded out a disastrous season on the hardwoods for Guilford. A lack of capable reserves, weakness at the center post, and a wealth of strong competition among the unusually powerful basketball quintets in the North State Conference loop accounts for the poor showing of the Quakers. With Elon and High Point again battling for first-place honors, and with LenoirRhyne, Catawba, and Appalachian all putting unusually strong quintets onto the floor the Quakers were completely outclassed.

The season of 1939 will very likely tell a different story, however. The Quakers, usually strong in basketball circles, will have a group of seasoned lettermen back in the fold. Sadler and Captain Overman are the only monogram winners of this year to be lost by graduation, and with the return of Lentz, Chambers, Boles, Hines, Nace, and Wynn from this year's team, and with the chances good that several strong freshmen prospects will appear when the call for 1939 candidates is issued, it appears that the Crimson should come through conference competition with a much better showing. Although lacking the height found in other squads, this group of players have the speed and experience to chalk up wins, and with the addition of a tall center to handle the pivot duties should form a strong combination. Boles, who has consistently been the high scorer for the Quakers, has been playing first-class basketball for the past two years, and with his senior year coming up should again be the scoring star for Guilford. Hartley, who as a freshman stood out at forward for the Quakers, was kept from varsity play this year because of scholastic ineligibility, but is expected to be among those present when the first game of the 1939 season rolls around and should add considerable strength to the lineup.

BASEBALL

While not as successful as in some previous seasons, yet the Guilford baseball squad came through the $193{ }^{7}$ schedule to capture fourth place in the Little Six Conference to wind up just behind High Point which captured third place behind Catawba and Elon, the leaders. In twenty starts the Quakers dropped but nine contests, an enviable record for any baseball club. Too, the Quakers were able to defeat every team in the conference at least once, with the biggest victory commg on May 1st when the Elon Christians, who have given the Crimson a drubbing in baseball for the past three years, were set down 4 to 0 behind the great p.tching of sophomore Roy Boles. While Boles was holding the losers to five scattered hits, his team mates were pounding out eight singles, with the hits coming when men were on base. Hockett, with two singles to his credit, and Captain Capella, with a triple were the hitting stars of the game. The game, marked bv thrills and spills, was the first game the Quikers have been able to take from Elon on our home field in ten years.

With Hepler, Swaim, Boles and Higgins to do the twirling, the Quakers put a strong outfit on the field. Fine pitching performances by each of the four starting hurlers enabled the Quakers to turn in the best strike-out record in the conference, with Boles striking out 56 batsmen, Swaim 67, Hepler 53. Boles, with but one loss in six games, led the moundsmen in wins, with Swaim and Hepler each winning three and losing three. Hockett connected with the horsehide of ten enough to give him a .324 batting average which led the team. Acree with a .304 average, and Boyles with .294 followed in second and third places in the batting race. Acree, one of the most effective pitchers during the ' 36 season, was forced to an infield position because of an injured arm.

The 1938 season, with seven lettermen back in their old positions, and with the infield intact except for the loss of Hockett at first base, again looks favorahle for the Quakers. With Boyles at the catching past, Graves at third, Tilson at short, Phillips at second, and Buck Hines the probable starter at first; Lentz in center freld. Nace in left, and Byrd in right, the Quakers' lineup with a fair bunch of hitters and a good fielding outfit. Coach Smith, as fine a baseball pilot as is to be found in the conference, expects to produce a fighting team from the players reporting.

CROSS COUNTRY

Guilford College can be proud of its Cross Country teams. During the past four years they have snared a good deal of the athletic glory coming to the campus. This year's team, with veterans Aiexander and Meibohm, Gilliam and Lindley returning, was bolstered considerably by the incoming freshmen who produced two capable runners in Winfred Meibohm and Smith. This year's record shows four victories against one single defeat. Davidson, with one of the strongest hartier outfits in the state, eked out a 25 to 30 victory in the first meet of the season, and with that behind them, the Quakers went on to win victeries over Randelph-Macon, North Carolina State, Carolina Reserves by substantial margins. With the exception of Anderson, the entire squad returns next year, and the Quakers should enjoy the best season in the history of the college.

TRACK

With only thrce lettermen returning from last year's powerful track team, the 1938 cindermen faced a four-meet schedule with some misgivings. Captain Meibohm in the quarter and half-mile events, Alexander in the mile and two-mile, and Lentz in the dashes were the sole returning varsity men from last year. With defeats at the hands of Wake Forest, Hampden-Sydney, and Catawba, the Quakers won only one meet during the season. Morris in the javelin and pole-vault, Scott and Boles in the discus, Maloney in the high jump, and McDonald, Macon and Thurner in the shot-put comprised the weight and field men. Winfred Meibohm, who performed so well on the cross-country team again came through with flying colors in the two-mile event for the Quakers, with Lentz, Meibohm, and Alexander again being the consistent point-winners for the squad.

TENNIS

The 1938 tennis squad, after getting off to a poor start in conference matches, bids fair to wind up the season in winning form, and expectations are that Guilford will experience the best season on the courts that she has had during recent years. Captain J. D. Bowman, Jim Parsons, and Howard Petrea are the veterans from previous seasons around whom the team is formed, and the remaining two vacancies have been assumed by Hughes Davis and Ken Morris.

Parsons, senior from High Point, has gotten the call for the number one position on the squad and to date has been turning in a brilliant brand of play. Bowman and Petrea, who won a majority of their singles matches last season, and who teamed together to turn in a spotless record in doubles play, are in top form and turning in winning performances consistently. Davis and Morris, the newcomers to the squad, are showing up commendably in matches played to date and have greatly strengthened the Quaker lineup.

The southern trip during spring holidays found the Crimson netmen returning home with a string of victories to their credit. They emerged victorious in matches played with the Bolles School in Jacksonville, Florida, and the College of St. Petersburg, and lost but once when they dropped a close decision to Southern College by a $4-3$ decision. At this writing only half of the scheduled matches have been played, but the Quakers have a majority of wins to boast of, with six victories against three defeats.

The Women's Athletic Association is organized for a dual purpose-to assist in the intra-mural sports and to promote character-building through a vigorous athletic life for women on the campus.
This year the Association, under the guidance of Miss McColl, newly-chosen Director of Girls' Physical Education, en'arged its scope of activity and introduced several innovations into its program. Archery, long a favorite among women's sports, was brought to the women's athletic program, equipment purchased and a range set up by the new tennis courts for the female Robin Hoods.

Neece, Jacobs, LaRosa, Locke, Leshe, Binford, Palmer, W'ctherald, Ander:on, Smalley, Rohr, Holloman

Dancing became a vital part of the Association's activities, when the women took charge of the weekly dancing classes conducted for students in Founders Hall. Too, the group sponsored the last dance of the winter season in the gymnasium, bringing out a large crowd for its venture into the college's social life.

Varsity teams were chosen from among all ; women taking physical education, and the varsity hockey and basketball teams engaged W. C. U. N. C. in contests during the year. Class tournaments in hockey, basketball and baseball were held, with composite teams from the two women's dormitories also staging a tournament to decide their respective abilities. The fall tennis tournament brought out a large list of entrants, with a varsity women's tennis team being chosen from the six top-ranking players at the end of the elimination play.

The annual May Day ceremonies, held on the campus in the natural amphitheatre once again attracted a large crowd of spectators from Greensboro and the community. This year's program, with dances by the dancing class conducted by Miss McColl, with a mock May Day play written by Mrs. Samra Smith, was unusually enjoyable. Miss Madeleine Smalley, President of the Athletic Association, reigned over the festivities as May Queen, with Miss Kay Ruble as Maid of Honor.
